Vision

- A company vision is a long-term, inspiring goal that sets the direction for a business. A well-crafted vision statement can also be a powerful tool for attracting and retaining top talent. This article sets out how to define and create a company vision statement that makes you a destination employer.

Mission

- A mission statement is used by a company to explain, in simple and concise terms, its purpose for being. It is usually one sentence or a short paragraph, explaining a company's culture, values, and ethics. Mission statements serve several purposes, including motivating employees and reassuring investors of the company's future. To craft a mission statement, consider how your company impacts customers, donors, investors, or your community and why you strive to help these parties. A mission statement might slightly overlap other marketing content, but it is different from a vision statement, value statement, brand, or slogan.
